Recap

West Virginia got a season-high 23 points from Daxter Miles Jr. on Senior Night to power the 10th-ranked Mountaineers to an 87-76 victory over No. 24 Iowa State in the regular season finale for both teams.

In addition to scoring 23 points, Miles grabbed seven rebounds and made five of six from the free throw line in clearly his best performance of the season.

A sell-out crowd of 14,528 helped recognize West Virginia's five seniors - Nathan Adrian, James Long, Teyvon Myers, Tarik Phillip and Brandon Watkins - which made up the starting lineup.

Long, a walk-on from Charleston, set the tone by hitting a 3 on West Virginia's opening possession of the game.

There were seven ties and 10 lead changes in the first half, WVU leading by as many as six, 9-3, and Iowa State holding a four-point advantage, 39-35, with 1:39 remaining.

Miles Jr. reduced that to one on a 3 and two Elijah Macon free throws the next time down the floor gave West Virginia back the lead, 40-39. A Macon block led to another Miles 3, with 49 seconds left before Monte Morris ended the first half with Iowa State's ninth triple. The Mountaineers (24-7) used a 7-0 run at the beginning of the second half to build an eight-point lead, 50-42, and the 3-point shots the Cyclones were making in the first half were not falling in the second.

Iowa State (20-10) was just two of eight from behind the arc in the second half, and during a six-minute stretch late in the game when the Mountaineers built their lead to as many as 17, all of the Cyclones' points came at the free throw line off of drives to the rim.

Naz Mitrou-Long led the Cyclones with 22, but 15 of those came in the first half.

Deonte Burton, who sat a good portion of the first half after picking up two quick fouls, scored 17 to match Morris' 17.

Matt Thomas contributed 16.

Adrian, playing in front of the hometown crowd for the last time, scored 16 points, grabbed seven rebounds and handed out three assists.

Jevon Carter scored 13, Macon had 10 off the bench and Phillip was close to a triple-double with seven points, eight rebounds and 10 assists.

WVU was 21 of 26 from the free throw line and had a sizable 48-29 advantage on the glass.

Notebook

- The victory assured West Virginia of its second straight single-digit loss season. The last time that happened was in 1982-83 when college basketball played a 26-game regular season schedule and the Mountaineers were competing in the Atlantic 10 Conference.

Recap

Jevon Carter scored 21 points to power 11th-ranked West Virginia to a 63-53 victory over 10th-seeded Texas in the quarterfinals of the Phillips 66 Big 12 Championship at the Sprint Center in Kansas City.

Except for a few brief moments in the first half, the Mountaineers led for almost the entire game behind the stellar outside shooting of Carter, who made seven of 12 overall and five of eight from 3.

Carter scored 16 of his game-high 21 in the first half as West Virginia built its lead to nine at intermission. With the score tied at 29, freshman forward Sagaba Konate gave the Mountaineers the lead for good on a baby hook shot in the lane, keying a 10-1 run.

Esa Ahmad added two more on a curl play, then Carter nailed a 3 from the wing and ended the first half scoring for the Mountaineers with a pair of free throws.

WVU built its lead to 13 - its biggest of the game - with a quick flurry to begin the second half. Tarik Phillip got a step-back shot to go down in the lane. Carter and Daxter Miles Jr. followed with breakaway baskets and then Konate nearly pulled down the basket with a baseline two-handed stuff to give the Mountaineers a 47-34 advantage.

From here, baskets were few and far between for WVU. The Mountaineers were stuck on 47 for nearly five minutes, allowing Texas to creep to within four with 8:30 remaining.

Teyvon Myers converted two free throws to make the margin six, 52-46, and then Adrian made two exceptional plays to get the lead back to 11. His pretty feed down in the blocks to Elijah Macon led to a basket and then he came up with the basketball along the sideline near the WVU bench and he fed Carter for a straightaway 3 at the top of the key.

That quick, 12-second spur effectually put the game away for West Virginia.

Texas (10-22) missed all eight of its field goal attempts over the remaining 5:34 and finished the game converting just two of its last 12.

The Mountaineers were not much better, however, converting one of their last nine and going the final 4:20 without making a field goal.

For the game, West Virginia shot 42.6 percent from the field and just 50 percent (10 of 20) from the free throw line.

The Mountaineers were seven of 13 from behind the arc, five of those coming from Carter.

Macon scored eight points and grabbed 10 rebounds, while Adrian contributed six points, nine rebounds, four assists and three blocks.

Notebook

- West Virginia's 54-percent shooting from 3 was a season-high, and it was also WVU's best 3-point shooting percentage in a Big 12 Championship game.
